Reading 1

Two well-known residents of Forest Hilltop, Flora Jones and Francis Smith, were married in a meadow near Smith's cabin on Sunday, August 4. The double-ring nuptials were performed by Horace Dooley, minister of his own Church of the True Faith. The bride was attended by Colleen Jones, the bride's daughter by a previous marriage, and Kristina Svenson, a longtime resident of Forest Hilltop. Verity Smith, the groom's daughter by a previous marriage, acted as flower girl. The duties of best man were shared by Daniel Lion and Rory Whitney. Mr. Lion read a selection of poetry by Shakespeare, and Mr. Whitney read a selection from Wordsworth's Prelude. Music for the ceremony was provided by the bride's brother, James, from London, who accompanied vocalist Marilyn Horn, a Forest Hilltop neighbor.

Also performing at the ceremony was Samuel Cantor, a friend of the groom from Los Angeles, who sang several of his own compositions, accompanied by James Guidry, of Washington, D.C., and William Morris, of New York City. Playing the flute, James Guidry led a procession of wedding guests and the groom's party from the groom's cabin to the meadow site of the wedding. Following the ceremony, the wedding party and guests strolled back to the cabin, where a reception was held for over 100 guests.

Reading 2

On July 4, 1776, a conclave of insurgent colonists in America passed the Declaration of Independence. War against the British had already been going on for over a year, so the Declaration came as the culmination of years of tempestuous events in America. The impetus for the American Revolution was the Treaty of Paris in 1763, which ended the struggle between the British and the French for control over North America. Since the colonists no longer were intimidated by the French, they ceased to rely upon the British for protection and were not as submissive as they were formerly. On the other hand, the British regarded the colonies as a source of revenue and began to impose inequitable taxes upon them. The Sugar Act in 1764 and the Stamp Act in 1765 were so vehemently opposed by disgruntled colonists that rioting broke out. The Stamp Act was repealed in 1766 as a result of the riots.

The British continued their policy of taxation without collaboration with their once docile subjects. The Townshend Acts (a series of taxes on glass, lead, paper, and tea) created such antipathy that the citizens of Boston attacked British soldiers who fired upon them. That was the Boston Massacre of 1770. After the repeal of the Townshend Acts, a new tea tax in 1773 again consolidated Boston residents' dissension. About fifty men disguised as Indians boarded British ships and jettisoned their cargo of tea in protest against the tea tax. That was the famous Boston Tea Party. In reprisal, the British abolished the Bostonians' right to self-rule, and by passing what were referred to as Intolerable Acts in Boston, they infuriated all of the colonies and caused them to unite in protest. Representatives from twelve colonies gathered in Philadelphia in 1774 to plan a stratagem to circumvent British interference in trade and to protest the infamy of taxation without representation. The British responded that the colonies were in rebellion, and, since nothing would appease either side, both sides prepared for war.

66) The author's intent in this passage is to

- a) tell about the American Revolution
- b) describe the temperament of the colonists
- c) give the causes of the American Revolution
- d) describe the effects of the American Revolution

67) You may infer that the Treaty of Paris

- a) gave the French control of Canada
- b) gave the control of North America to the British
- c) made the colonists in America very angry
- d) had an immediate effect upon colonists' desire for independence

68) The colonists after the Treaty of Paris did not need the British because they

- a) were independent
- b) didn't like to pay taxes
- c) didn't need protection from an enemy
- d) made a treaty with the French

69) The Sugar Act and Stamp Act were

- a) passed in 1765
- b) taxes upon the colonists
- c) repealed
- d) equitable

70) The first violent protest against the British was made in

- a) 1764

- c) colonists were killed
- d) British soldiers sided with Boston residents

72) The Boston Tea Party was

- a) a celebration in Boston
- b) held on board a British ship
- c) an Indian rebellion
- d) an act of aggression by the colonists

73) You can infer that the Intolerable Acts

- a) were repealed
- b) displeased the British
- c) infringed upon colonists' rights
- d) were entirely related to taxes

74) You can infer that the meeting in Philadelphia in 1774

- a) was a very important social event
- b) took place to discuss taxes
- c) was a conclave of the British and the colonists
- d) was the first time the colonists united to protest British injustice

75) The British and the colonists went to war because the

- a) colonists wanted independence from their rulers
- b) British fired at the Bostonians in the Boston Massacre
- c) Bostonians dumped tea in the sea at the Boston Tea Party
- d) colonists objected to taxation without representation

The Federal Surface Mining Act was passed in 1977 for the laudable purpose of protecting the environment from the ravages of strip-mining of coal. For many years, environmentalists had fought to get the bill passed. Strip-mining menaces the habitat of wildlife and causes incalculable damage to the environment. The law is explicit on such matters as where strip-mining is prohibited, the disposal of toxic waste, the placement of power lines, and the rights of the public to take part in the control of strip-mining. However, the Secretary of the Interior has recently incurred the wrath of environmentalists by advocating numerous proposals that repudiate the existing law.

According to the law, strip-mining is prohibited in national forests, national wildlife refuges, public parks, historic places, and within a specified number of feet from roads, cemeteries, parks, houses, and schools. The exception to this prohibition is stated in the words valid existing rights, referring to those miners who had rights in protected lands before the law was passed. By redefining "valid existing rights," the local government could infringe upon the law by opening over a million acres of national forest and wildlife refuges to strip-mining. Naturally, the National Wildlife Federation is appalled. This proposal does not augur well for wildlife, which will be destroyed by such latent killers as power lines and tainted ponds near strip-mines. It doesn't require a sage to foresee the wrangle that is forthcoming between proponents of conservation and the government. The consensus among environmentalists is that unless they obstruct the regulations, this land will be ravaged and our wildlife severely maimed by strip-mining companies for the sake of a few pennies' profit.

76) From the context of the passage, the meaning of strip-mining is

- a) the mining of coal on public lands
- b) surface mining
- c) shaft mining
- d) illegal mining

77) The Federal Surface Mining Act

- a) limits coal production
- b) prohibits strip-mining
- c) restricts strip-mining to specific locations
- d) menaces wildlife

78) The expression existing valid rights refers to

- a) mining rights in existence before 1977
- b) miners' rights that cannot be violated
- c) the right to mine coal any place in the United States
- d) the right to mine on protected land

79) Wildlife is endangered by

- a) coal mining
- b) the Secretary of the Interior
- c) toxic waste in bodies of water
- d) migration paths

80) The proposed regulations will

- a) curtail the rights of environmentalists
- b) increase the area of strip-mining
- c) help clean up the environment
- d) cost miners a lot of money

THIS IS THE END OF THE TEST.

Good Luck
